Inspection Picture of the Month:

Deck inspections are an area where safety is foremost on the mind of the inspector.

This deck has some serious structural issues present with the cracked joists, and safety issues with missing handrail guards.

This is an extreme example of obvious improvements needed on a deck. Often the problems are more subtle, and more difficult to inspect. But, with many decks being elevated and coming off a second floor, an inspection for these type of items is critical, to ensure the safety of the occupants.
